Police Justices Roused by the Expose of Pauper Frauds.

Rigid Investigations Now of Vagrants' Previous Whereabouts.

Fruit of "Evening World" Disclosures of Pauper-Smuggling.

A good result has already followed Tw EVENING WORLD'S exposure of the wholes.ae pauper-dumping traffic, of which New York city has been made the victim, in the increased vigilance of the local officials and magistrates, particularly the police justices. in guarding against a continuance of the

As a rule, paupers shipped to this city and turned loose in the streets find their way speedily into the police courts. They want to be committed to the workhouse, the Charity Hospital or some other institution which affords food and shelter, and are shrewd enough to stick to the story that they are residents of the city.

Police justices have scores of such applications daily. Formerly the justices have usually been disposed to leniency, and inquiries regard to the previous record of the applicants have not been pushed very vigorously. Since THE EVENING WORLD has opened the

and the East, but from other sections of the country as well.

"In view of The Evening World's enterprise in bringing this garing evil to the attention of the authorities and the public, police justices, in my opinion, should exercise especial care to inquire into the character and condition of the cases of vagrancy or destitution brought before them. The cases should be investigated thoroughly by the Justices to the extent of the power vested in them.

Police Justice Duffy said: "I am very clad to see that The Evening World has taken up this matter of the shipping of paupers to this city. It is an abuse that has gone on long enough and ought to be stopped.

"I not only suspect, but I know, that thousands of paupers are sent to this city every year by the poormasters in adjoining states and counties. New York city is the receptable for all the rag-tag and refuse of states and counties. New York City is the receptable for all the rag-tag and refuse of New Jersey. Massachusetts, Ithode Island and Connecticut, and has been for years.

"I have always tried hard to detect these impostors, but it is extremely difficult to prove that they are lying, although you may be morally sure of it.

"If I am suspicious I always hold the person before me and turn him over to the Department of Charities and Correction.

"They do the best they can, I suppose, but still a great majority of them get into institutions here and are well housed and fed for the Winter.

"The only remedy I can think of for this imposition would be to empower the Board of Charities and Correction to employ a sufficient force of detectives to investigate every case and keep on the look-out for these pauper shipments. There is a law against it, and if any person bringing paupers into the city should be arrested, as he ought to be, I would see that the penalty was enforced.

ne ought to be, I would see that the penalty was enforced.

"It costs the city about 60 cents a day for each pauper," concluded Judge Duffy, " and I venture to say that three out of every five who apply in this manner have no claim whatever for support from this city."

Justice McManon said at the Tombs "Ever since I have been on the bench I have known that the great majority of those who apply here as paupers are shipped here by the hundreds from all parts of the country.

"This Practs: should be stopped. A thorough investigation would show the best means of accomplishing the result.

"Suspicious cases are always sent to the charities and Correction for further investigation, for we have no means of disproving the statements made by these people when they come here."

they come here."

Comptroller Myers said that complaint had aiready heen made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the large increase during the last year or so in the expense of taking care of paupers and children committed to the city institutions.

The cost has increased from $30,000 to $50,000, and it is partly attributed to the large number of children committed. I have no doubt, however, that some of this increase comes from the paupers of other States and cities who are sent here, although this practice, I know, has been going on for years.

It is very difficult to detect cases of violation of the law, but there ought to be some way of remedying the abuse."

HAS A LETTER FROM CRISP.

Anderson Says Ali Hands Are Satlefied as to the Banquet Incident.

E. Ellery Anderson, President of the Reform Club, received this morning from Speaker Crisp, of the House of Representatives, a reply to his letter of two days ago. Mr. Anderson declined to make the letter's contents public, nor would be say what his recent letter to Mr. Crisp had contained.

"Was Mr. Crisp's letter friendly?"

Mrs. Brooke began his cross-examination of President Lincoln.

"I told her," continued Mrs. Sire, "that she was getting tirred of work and wanted to get married to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Sire is a rather stout woman, with a very gay hat, but apparently quite self-possessed.

On her direct examination she put a different construction on her visit to the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marrings of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marrings of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marrings of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marrings of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marrings of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887, on which date the marring of one of the Jacobs family, lust previous to Nov. 17, 1887 public, nor would be say what his recent letter to Mr. Crisp had contained.

"Was Mr. Crisp's letter friendly?"

"I could not answer that without disclosing its contents. I will say, however, that both Mr. Crisp and I are satisfied, and that the public ought also to be satisfied and allow us some respite from its continual round of inquiries. Anyway, I think it is very unjust to impute to me a deliberate intention or putting a slight upon a guest. I don't see how a gentieman entitled to the designation could be guilty of such a violation of hospitality. And I repeat that Speaker Crisp is satisfied that my conduct at the recent banquet of the Reiorn club was not intentionally open to such an imputation."

With her. She said she would begin a law suil."
